

Website Design Agreement

This simple agreement is between RL Forge Works (Robert Lukianczyk) and the Client named below. It sets out what's being built, the price, and how it works — in plain English.

Client / Business: _____ Date: _____

- 1 The Work. RL Forge Works will design and build a website as described in the agreed quote and intake form. That description is the scope. Anything outside it is a separate quote.
- 2 Price & Payment. Total: $ _____. A 50% deposit is due before work begins and is non-refundable once work starts. The remaining 50% is due before the finished site goes live. Optional upkeep: $ _____/month, cancel anytime.
- 3 Revisions. The price includes up to two (2) rounds of design revisions. Extra rounds or changes after approval are billed separately at an agreed rate.
- 4 What the Client Provides. Text, logo, and any specific photos — or approval to use licensed stock images. The Client confirms they have the right to use everything they provide. Missing content can delay the timeline.
- 5 Timeline. Estimated _____ business days from the deposit and receipt of all content. Delays in content or feedback move the date.
- 6 Ownership. Once final payment is made, the finished website is the Client's to keep and use. RL Forge Works may display the work as a portfolio sample unless the Client asks otherwise in writing.
- 7 Hosting & Domain. The Client owns their own hosting and domain accounts and pays those costs directly. RL Forge Works builds and publishes using access the Client grants, and that access can be removed by the Client at any time.
- 8 No Guarantee of Results. RL Forge Works delivers a professional, working website but does not guarantee specific business outcomes such as traffic, sales, or search rankings.
- 9 Cancellation. Either side may cancel in writing. The Client pays for work completed up to that point; the deposit is non-refundable.
- 10 Agreement. This is the whole agreement between both parties and is governed by the laws of the State of California.

Plain-language note: this is a simple working agreement, not legal advice. It covers the common issues for a small website project. For larger or higher-risk jobs, consider a quick review by a lawyer.
